BARNUM PREACHING RANK BERESY

LONDON, October 26 .- [Copyright.]-Athens will be the gayest spot in Europe to-morrow, as indeed, it has been all week, in anticipation of the marriage of the Princess Sophia, of Germany, to the Crown Prince of Greece. The streets are profusely decorated with flags and garlands of myrtle, and have been thronged with enthusiastic crowds for the last three days, all anxious guests. The bride arrived to-day, accompanied by her mother, the Empress Frederick, and three other German princesses. At Kalmaki, near Corinth, they were met by the bridegroom, accompanied by his father, the King of Greece, his brother, Prince George of Greece, and Prince Waldemar of Denmark, uncle of the groom, and they sailed thence for Pirmus, on board the royal yacht Amphitrite.

He Tuffies England to Catch the Ear of the British Public.

Nevertheless, Barnum's show has already made a great hit in London. Though it does not open until the 11th of next month, the metropolis and its environs are gandy with the great posters, familiar to all Pittsburgers, and great crowds gather before the billboards to wonder and admire.

reporters. He is interviewed in railway carriages, at breakfast, and in bed. What he eats, what he drinks, and wherewithal that he is clothed has been described in the newspapers, and his daily walks and drives are chronicled with extreme precision. Barnum has now decided that as his whole show will not be allowed in the Lord Mayor's procession, he will give a separate procession of his own, on the same day, and make the Lord Mayor's show look foolish.

Small Dumages Allowed Her-Who She is.

(BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.) LONDON, October 26 .- The readers of THE DISPATCH were kept fully informed, some three years ago, of the extraordinary career and trial of the notorious swindler, the bogus Rev. Oswald Keating, who lived luxuriously on his wits for 30 years, varied by occasional terms of imprisonment. Keating bagged some big game in his time, including a couple of cardinals, the Protestant Archbishop of Dublin, the late Bishop Potter and Henry Ward Beecher. In America heedited the Christian Union, posed as an anti-Catholic lecturer, and should be well if not fondly remembered by thousands of dupes. Since his last impris-onment he has been living in retirement and presumably within the law in a London to witness the arrival of the illustrious suburb. About a year ago he contributed a series of well-written articles on his prison experiences to a London evening paper.

AGAIN PROMINENT. To-day Keating's name again figured in the newspapers in connection with an auda-cious action for libel, in which Polly Hopley, his mistress, was plaintiff. Many Americans can doubtless recall to their minds the charming, pious Mrs. Keating, alias Polly Hopley, the devoutest worshiper in the fashionable churches of New York. Seventeen years ago Keating as curate of St. Martin's, Worcester, was the darling of all churchgoers in that part of the country. He got into trouble, of course, and duly Naturally, when years later, this queer meteor was blazing in the sky at Dublin, the newspapers in the Worcester District recalled the time when its light flashed upon them. Among other things, they re-printed the notice issued in 1882, from Scotand Yard, stating that Keating was wanted by the police, and that he was accompanied by a woman known as Polly, who is a skill-ful forger. This was published in October,

MONEY IN SIGHT. Keating and Polly Hopley thought they saw a chance of making money out of the publication under those libel laws which make the most expensive thing possible to an English newspaper to expose fraud and denonnee abuse. Blackmailing failed for once, however, and finally Polly actually sued four newspapers for libel. The case came on for trial to-day, in the Court of Queen's bench. Polly in conservationally in the case came on for trial to-day, in the court of Queen's bench. in cross-examination, was prodigiously in-diguant at being called a forger, and wanted the Judge and jury to believe she had been handling pitch for 27 years without being herself defiled. She did not succeed to that extent, but in the absence of proof of conviction for forgery, the jury, by direction of the Judge, returned a verdict for the plain-tiff, and assessed the damages at 40 shillings against each of the four defendants, with

The verdict may have been technically right, but as the woman had been the part-ner of an infamous swindler for more than a generation, people are asking why the Judge did not exercise the discretion vested in him and order the plaintiff to pay her hold its own without further aid. The visit of the German Emperor to Constantinople is causing many misgivings in the minds of officials of the sublime ports. His Majesty has ordered that the ruler of Germany shall be received with fitting naval and military honors, and the creatures of the palace are at their wits' end to accomplish this. They can do fairly well on shore, but the first trouble aftent was to get ironclads which could be safely moved to anchorage opposite the palace. When this had been done by the help of steam tugs and the least possible use of the machinery of the ironclad, they felt doubtful about the propriety of firing the big guns on board, even for salutes. Judging from the condition of the vessels there seems to be considerable element of risk about it, and if Wiltempts with paval artillery from afar. But it is not only with the guns of soldiers that the mind of the Turkish civil officer is occupied. The Sultan has directed that the streets through which the Emperor is to pass shall be well paved and cleansed; that the houses shall be in good repair and taste-fully decorated. Gaslamps are to be erected in places where light after sundown was previously unknown. It only needs the visits of a few more potentates to Constantinople, perhaps, to have the city entirely renovated. At present, however, the people who live on the line of the route, and who have to bear all these expenses for outward show, are wishing they resided in some other part of the town.

SONGSTERS AND ACTORS.

What American Stage Celebrities are Doing in England.

[BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.] LONDON, October 26 .- Geraldine Ulmar. the American star of the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company, has been very much annoyed by a report published in a New York newspaper that she had refused to sign a year's contract to sing in the new opera, on the ground that she was engaged to Will-iam Gordon Kellogg, of San Francisco. Miss Ulmar did sign the contract, she is not engaged to Kellogg, has not been, and will not be, neither is she engaged to be married to anyone else. She is delighted with her part in the new opera, and considers it one of the best roles in which she has ever had an opportunity to appear, and she is also convinced that the opera itself is one of the very best of the Gilbert-Sullivan

Mrs. James Brown-Potter is also said to be looking for a West End theater, and the visit of Kyrle Bellew to London this week was, it is rumored, with a view to that purpose. Mrs. Potter's health is said to be en-tirely restored. She certainly looked well enough when I saw her a few days ago, driving down the Champs Elysee, Paris, in an open victoria with the faithful Kyrle a her side.

Another American actress, Loie Fuller, made her London debut this week, appear-ing at the Globe Theater in "Caprice." Miss Fuller was well received, but the play was unanimously damned.

Honest Work. LONDON, October 26 .- Court circles on the continent are still ringing with the determination of the Archduke John of Austria to renounce his rank and fortune and to take command of an English merchant ship. John is no beggar or tramp, however. He wants to work and earn his own bread. He is a splendid officer, highly educated, with a faculty for mathematics and scientific problems, and in politics he borders on socialism, and his outspoken utterances were always getting him into bot Unfortunately for himself, the Archduke offended the Archduke Albrecht by criticis ing his military skill, and Count Kalnoky by espousing the cause of Prince Ferdinand, of Bulgaria. The influence of these two was sufficient to induce the Emperor Francis Joseph to remove the Archduke John from his command. Now John insists that he will have work of some kind. He is a finely built, powerful man of 38, full of life and energy.

HALFORD NEEDED AT HOME

Politicians Think He Could Secure Indiana to the Republicans if He Were to Resume Editorial Work-A

Fight for the Senatorship. PERCIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.I INDIANAPOLIS, October 26.—Both parties have organized preliminary for the coming campaign, the result of which is to determine who shall succeed Mr. Voorhees in the Senate, and nearly all the State officers except Governor. The reported resignation of Halford created some surprise among certain politicians in Indianapolis, while among others it was quite the re-One politician who earnestly requested that his name be not used, said: "I will tell you something that may surprise you. Haltord is more than likely to come back to Indianapolis and resume editorial work. He is beyond doubt a tower of strength to the Republicans of this State. He proved it during the Presidental campaign and we missed him in the recent city fight. I honestly be-lieve that if Halford had been here the Republicans would have carried the city. is a great organizer and systematizer, and in an editorial way is a greater power in In-diana than any other man I know of."

"But how can be resume editorial work if he is broken down physically?"
"I don't believe it. He is undoubtedly sick. A little rest and care will restore him so that he will be able to come here and do newspaper work next spring or summer. He will be here, I am quite sure, before the next State campaign. "Will he take his old place at the head of the Journal?"

"I am sorry you asked me that question. I can't tell you our plans. He may go on the Journal on certain conditions, and then he may not. You see there is much illfeeling among Republicans toward Holiday and the News because of the position of that paper during the recent city campaign. Further than this I have no information to give, but you can draw your own conclu-

"I have not said so, nor will I say so. I don't know anything about that, but let me tell you this, General Michener is Chairman of the State Committee now. He is a fighter. He proposes to so organize the party as to secure the State to the Republicans from now on. Mark this, will you, and wait for the outcome. I can absolutely tell you no
